Tools

- Angular: A powerful front-end framework for building dynamic and responsive user interfaces. Angular was used to develop the single-page application, managing the navigation and state of the user interface.

- MongoDB: A NoSQL database used to store and manage product and user data. MongoDB's flexible schema allowed for efficient handling of diverse product information.

- Express: A minimal and flexible Node.js web application framework used to build the server-side API. Express handles routing, requests, and responses, facilitating communication between the client and the database.

- Node.js: A runtime environment that enables server-side JavaScript execution. Node.js was used to run the Express server, handling backend logic and database interactions.

The combination of these technologies ensures a robust and scalable web application, providing users with an efficient and enjoyable shopping experience.
